DRESSING FOR CHURCH.

Has anybody heard the bell?
You have? dear me, I know full well
I'll never dress in time.
For mercy's sake, come help me, Jane;
I'll make my tolict quite plain,
(This is for the sake of rhyme.)

Here lace this gatter for me—do:
"A hole," you say? plague take the shoe!
Please, Janey, try and hide it.
I know it's Sunday—but, my soul,
I cannot wear it with a hole,
The men will spy it.

They're always peeping at our feet
(The' to be sure they needn't peep
The way we hold up our dresses.)
Fil disappoint them though to-day,
"And cross myself," pray what did you say!
Dont laugh at my distresses.

How beautifully this silk will rustle!

("Please hand me my self-adjusting bustle, My corset and my hoop.")

There now, I'll take five skirts or six;

Do hurry, Jane, and help the fix—
You know I cannot stoop!

How shall I say my prayers to-any?

As if girls went to church to pray!
How can you be so foolish?
Here damp this ribbon in cologne,
"What for? to paint you silly one—
Now, Janey, don't be mulish!

It's no more harm than "Lilly White"(Please see if this cheek's painted right,
And hand my box of chalk.)
Now damp this towel, Janey dear,
And wipe this eyeprow—much I fear
I shall be late to walk.

Now my bonnet, if you please—That's as big as all out doors,
The awful sugar scoop!
Then my mantle's handsome though,
It cost enough to be, I know,
(Straighten this horrid hoop.)

My handkerchief and gloves you'll find Just in that drawer—you're very kind. (Does my dress trail?) It's the fashion now, you know, Pray does the paint and powder show Thro' this lace veil?!

Thank you my dear! I believe I'm dressed,
The saints be praised! the day of rest
Comes only once in seven;
For if on all the other six
This trouble I should have to fix,

Republican Meeting at Clinton.

Pursuant to previous notice, a large number of the Republicans of Anderson county assembled in the courthouse at Clinton on Monday, September 5th, 1870.

On motion of James N. Ray, Esq., Col. H. C. Homstead was called to the chair, who briefly explained the object of the meeting. Whereupon, on motion the chair appointed L. C. Houk, J. C. Chiles and C. D. McGuffey a committee to prepare business for the meeting. In the absence of the committee, James N. Ray being called upon, addressed the convention in a happy and entertaining style. At the close of Mr. Ray's speech the committee returned, and

Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting appoint as many as one delegate from each civil district in the county, who shall represent us, the Republicans of Anderson, in said Nashville Convention, and that the said delegates be and are hereby instructed to cast the vote of this county for any true Republican upon whom the other divisions of the State may desire to unite.

at Maynardville on Saturday, the 24th of the present month.

Resolved, further, That the chairman of this meeting appoint a suitable number of delegates, whose duty it shall be to meet a similar delegation from Campbell county, at Coal Creek on Friday next, the 9th day of September, 1870, and agree upon a candidate to run on the Republican ticket for Representative from the two counties, and that the said delegates go to said convention uninstructed.

ties, and that the said delegates go to said convention uninstructed.

Revolved, further, That the Republican party of Anderson county, hereby reaffirms its devotion to those principles which resulted in the establishment of the National Government, and which prevented its overthrow by the recent Democratic rebellion; that, laying aside all personal differences and discountenancing every attention of discountenancing every attention of discountenancing every attention of discountenancing every attention. sonal differences and discountenancing every at-tempt at dissension and consequent division, the Republicans enter the coming contest with re-newed vigor, tall of hope for the future, and de-termined to conquer; that they look to the spread of political information and the educa-tion of the masses as the sure means of securing the triumph of Republican principles, and do therefore demand the restoration of the free free school system so ruthlessly togal away by the Democratic party.

free school system so ruthlessly torn away by the Democratic party.

Resolved, further. That the Republicans of this county, fully determined to onite, in order to achieve success, do hereby pledge themselves to the hearty support of Mr. Maynard, who, it is conceded by all, is to be our candidate for the next Congress, and whose steadfast adherence to principle should endear him to every loyal man, and whose acknowledged ability as a leg-islator has given him the respect of even our enemics.

After the reading of the preamble and re solutions, the chairman remarked that it might not be improper for him to explain why the last resolution had been reported by him, and would now receive his vote, He said: "Personally, I do not like Mr. Maynard, never have, but the time has come when personal preferences, likes and dislikes, must be be laid aside, and the Union people unite, in order to defeat the Rebel-Democratic party. I went the other night to hear John C. Brown, the most prominent Democratic candidate for Governor. I went, expecting to vote for him, as the most liberal man possible to elect under the circumstances; but he had not proceeded but a few moments until he said, in substance, "that the brains and respecta-bility of the State were all rebels, while the Union element was composed of the ignorant and soum of society,." Rather than support such a ticket, I am ready to endorse and vote for Maynard or any other. Coal. dorse and vote for Maynard or any other Union man. I therefore move the adoption of the resolutions as a whole," This motion being seconded, the resolutions were ununimously adopted.

After which, the chair appointed the following delegates to the Nashville convention, viz

Quite a large amount of capital is also employed by manufacturers of this city, in other counties, in producing materials for their business, such as coal, lumber, iron, &c, which also is not included.

But this statement shows $765,000 capital invested, 605 hands employed, and $980,500 paid out annually for labor and materials in the manu-facturing business of Knoxville.

facturing business of Knoxville.

We find all parties agree as to the importance and necessity of building up manufactures in our city. We believe that with proper effort on the part of this Board, our unsurpassed advantages can be so pressed upon the attention of those projecting such enterprises in the South as to secure their choice in our favor.

As to the manufacture of iron and steel, no locality in the United States can show better facilities. We have close at hand inexhaustible beds of iron ore, immense forests of timber, and an abundance of stone coal, all convenient to railroad and water transportation: which combined abundance of stone coal, all convenient to railroad and water transportation: which combined make Knoxville a remarkably favorable point for this branch of business.

We find, in fact, no lack of raw materials—cheap and abundant—that will make almost any branch of manufactures yield a handsome profit. Besides iron, we have other minerals, including zinc, lead, and copper. Timber is cheap and of fine quality. Wood is soon to become one of our chief products. We are on the border of the cotton growing States, situated to take the raw material from first hands and pay for it in our own products. And, besides, we take the raw material from first hands and pay for it in our own products. And, besides, we have an abundance of cheap food to sustain a manufacturing population, all combined to give us overy desired advantage.

Cincinnati prides herself on her extensive manufactories, claiming to have over 55,000 hands employed and to produce $104,000,000 annually of manufactured goods. But Knoxville has advantages, in many respects, superior to Cincinnatt. We give below a compactative statement of the average market price of some of the more important raw material entering into manufactures:

14:1	The second secon	172	CONTRACTOR OF STREET	A REPORT OF THE PARTY.

-	THE RESERVE		385555	.005,007

The above makes apparent the difference in our favor. But we feel that we are not reaping the legitimate benefits within our reach, and hope soon to see capital more extensively inwested in such manufactures as will use up these materials, and furnish the various articles of use and necessity to meet the wants of not only those in our immediate section of country, but also do our share in filling that great market in the cotton States which opens up before us such an un-limited demand for manufactured goods of eyery description.

ry description.

With no competing cities nearer than Richmond, on the east, and Nashville, on the west, with being situated in the centre of East Tennesses, having all these materials at hand at first cost, being backed by a fine agricultural country, with delightful climate and good water, and having favorable railroad connections, and water communication, Knoxville should speedily become one of the great manufacturing points in the South, a city of 100,000 population.

One distillery at Louisville has already made return to the Collector's office for about 400 gallons of proof spirits, and has paid the tax thereon. There is scarcely a county in East Tennessee in which there is not from six to a dozen distilleries engaged in making brandy. Under the new regulation adopted for the benefit of small distilleries, the law is very easily complied with.

Enoxville Wholesale Market.

Review of the Produce Market for the week ending September 12, 1870.

Corrected by J. W. GAUT, No. 25 Market Squre.

KNOXVILLE, September 12, 1870.
The grain market is still void of animation, and so far as we seed the prospects of the future are not flat tering. A large proportion of the wheat shipped from East Tenuersee this season, went to the Richmond market, at the opening of the season. The Richmond mills sent large orders for wheat, and commission merchants convasced the country, by agents, soliciting consignments. This stimulated dealers to buy at price above value, and also stimulated farmers to hold their wheat at war prices. The wheat was either it transit or contracted for when prices declined. Millers with drew their orders, and shippers have to suffer the decline. In many instances, the wheat was sold in good faith by the commission merchant, but before delivery a further decline took place, and for some imaginary defect the wheat was rejected, and thrown back to be sold again at a less price. Now, a part, and a large part, of this delay and loss is attributable to the condition in which the wheat is offered, and therefore is the fault of the farmer. If wheat is uniform and always dry and clean, purchasers could not use this pretext to bear down prices. We therefore repeat our oft-repeated admonition: Prepare your grain, and put it into market only in good condition. Besides this we will venture another suggestion to both farmers and shippers-viz. If you do not get your wheat in market, in good con-dition, early enough in the season to avail yourselves of the first market, don't ship at all until it is sold. Put your grain in good condition; have it ready for sale at reasonable market prices. Every bushel of wheat, corn and oats can be sold, and will be wanted. The transactions of the past week embraced only two or three car loads of wheat, at from 75c, to $1.00. We hear of no shipments of oats. The Bry Goods Market.

The Bry Goods Market.

New York, Sept. 2.—There was an active business transacted, with large transactions in domestic cotton goods, at higher prices for some of the lower grades. The decreased production, owing to the extensive strikes of the mills, has diminished the stocks on hand, and prices firmer. Domestic woolen goods are seiling freely at full prices. Woolen shawls in desirable styles are becoming scarce, owing to the heavy purchased lately. Finances are active and steady in price. With importers trade is quiet, and there is no diposition to press safes. The auctions are well supplied with goods, and fair prices are realized.
